>Electrical work focused on better lighting was completed, but there are still areas needing work.

>Two bids have been received for the roof by the original contractor, one just to manage and the other to fix. There is another bidder that is to come out and give an estimate. A third bid is being sought, without much luck.

>New 2 drainage issue was looked at by Pioneer Pipe. Their solution is to remove concrete and put in a new trough in front of the runs that meet at the current center drain (which leads nowhere currently), travel out the side of the building to meet up in the back with an existing drain. Kelly received their estimate on 4/1. The bid was for $1,885.00, which takes out their labor. The only other material we will need to buy is Quickcrete. They will jackhammer the concrete. We will have to remove debris, dig the trench and fill the trench back in. Discussion was had about this needing addressed in order to house animals in New 2. The consensus was, even though the bid is over $1,000.00, this is a pressing issue and we do not need to wait for three bids.
